CRITERION 1- TEACHING LEARNING

1.1 Mode of Teaching

1.1.1. Lecture method only

At Government College Seraj at Lambathach, the predominant mode of teaching is the lecture method. Faculty members conduct regular classroom teaching using this method to ensure comprehensive coverage of the prescribed syllabus in a systematic and organized manner. During the session 2024–25, this method continued to remain the primary and most widely used approach, as it helps promote conceptual understanding, clarity of thought, and effective knowledge dissemination among students.

Classroom teaching is carried out using whiteboards, green boards, and blackboards, depending on the availability of facilities in different rooms. Teachers use markers or chalks as required, and wherever feasible, they also utilize PowerPoint presentations, charts, maps, and printed notes to make lectures more illustrative and engaging. This approach facilitates direct teacher–student interaction and enables teachers to address queries and clarify concepts instantly.

Considering the rural background and diverse learning levels of students, the lecture method remains the most practical and accessible mode of instruction. To make the teaching process more effective, question–answer sessions, class discussions, and short assessments are conducted within lecture hours to monitor student comprehension and participation.

The institution also encourages faculty members to integrate modern teaching aids and ICT tools to supplement the traditional lecture method, thereby promoting a more interactive and learner-centered classroom environment.
