CRITERION 3- ICT FACILITIES

3.7. Laboratory Facilities

3.7.2 Usage of available Lab Infrastructure

The laboratory infrastructure available in the college is systematically planned and effectively utilized to support the teaching-learning process and to meet the practical requirements of various academic programmes. The laboratories of Botany, Chemistry, Geography, Physics, and Zoology are regularly used for conducting practical classes as per the university-prescribed curriculum and academic timetable, ensuring that every student receives adequate hands-on training. Laboratory sessions are closely integrated with theoretical teaching, which helps students to understand concepts more clearly through experimentation and observation.

Apart from routine practical classes, the laboratory facilities are also utilized for demonstrations, internal assessments, project work, and skill-oriented activities. Students are encouraged to use laboratory resources under the guidance and supervision of faculty members for academic enrichment, preparation of practical records, and completion of assigned experiments. The laboratories also support field-based and observational learning (where applicable), especially in subjects like Geography, Botany, and Zoology.

The college ensures proper scheduling, supervision, and maintenance of laboratory infrastructure to achieve maximum utilization. Safety norms are strictly followed, and equipment is periodically checked and maintained to ensure accuracy and safe usage. Through the effective use of laboratory infrastructure, the institution promotes experiential learning, scientific temper, analytical thinking, and research-oriented skills, thereby enhancing the overall quality of education.
